FEATURED WINE

Graci

"Grah-chee"

2022 Etna Rosso

Mt. Etna | Sicily | Italy

Graci, situated on the north slope of Mount Etna at Passopisciaro, is found in an area where viticulture dates back several thousand years. Their vineyards sit at an altitude between 600 and 1,000 meters above sea level. Planting density ranges from 6,000 to 10,000 vines per hectare. Many of the vines are still on original rootstock, ungrafted, having never been affected by the phylloxera scourge thanks to the unique nature of the volcanic soils.

They do not use herbicides in order to preserve the unique balance and vital energy of the soil. They do not use barriques, but only the big, upright, wooden casks known as "tini" and large, well-used wood barrels. Their sole objective is to reflect the personalities of their vineyards and the sublime differences between each and every harvest.

Made primarily from indigenous Nerello Mascalese grapes grown in mineral-rich volcanic soils, this wine delivers an elegant, medium-bodied profile with vibrant red fruit, baking spice, and flinty minerality, often compared to Pinot Noir.

Etna Rosso is also delicious chilled, as it does not have many of those mouth-drying tannins. It is delicious with lighter fare, like salads and seafood, eggplant, cheese, and pasta.

This month, we are pleased to feature this delicious wine by offering it By-The-Glass.
